-The Gloriana Made an Effort, NEW LONDON, Aug. 3,-The second day of the New York Yacht Club's annual cruise, and the first day on which the yachts have actually raced, was made memorable in many ways. In the Grst place, it was a day of calms, flukes. and luck and shifting breezes; in the next place, it was made noteworthy through the really phenomenal salling of the 4ti-footer Wasp and the 90-foot schooner Lasca, which defeated the entire fleet into New London barbor in hollow style. Archibald Rogers, the owner and clever amatour skipper of the Wasp, and Cary Smith, the designer of the country to-night, and, under similar conditions, it is doubtful if any boats in the fleet will be able to hold the Wasp and the Lasca. To be sure they had a favorable wind, which ts hardly considered a fair test of a boat's merits, but they did enough to satisfy the average safferman that the others will have to show considerable improvement in speed before they can hope to heat them. The great surprise of the day, however, was the really phenomena sailing done by Bayard Thayer's 40-foot Burgess sloop Sayonara. She not only led the fleet for a good part of the trip, but came near beating the Wasp. The latter, however, managed to draw away after passing Cornfield Lightship. J. Regers Maxwell's little flyer from Bay Ridge, with her owner and builder, H. C. Winteingham, on board, sailed a splendid race, but was defeated by R. Suydam Palmer's schooner Marguerite after a rattling race. Caldwell H. Colt's old schooner Dauntless covered herself with glory by defeating the more moderate Constellation. The Lasca, as stated above, won easily, with the Marila and Alexa hull down at the finish.

The old-time 70-foot sloop Fannie found the weather just to her liking and defeated her old-time rival the Gracie and the modern Katrina easily. C. W. We'more's 40-footer Lirls, which started over twenty-seven minutes behind, did some fine work and caught up with the fleet off the Thimbie Islands. The Fortune also did some salling until she got becalmed. Frederick Grinnell's dandy little schooner Quickston, under a perfect cloud of canyas. had little trouble in capturing the prize in her class and was well up with the big boats at The club received a large addition to its fleet here last evening. At 6 o'clock there were fully 150 yachts in the harbor unchored off the Pequot House. Of these 130 belonged to the New York Yacht Club. Off Sachem's Head, just the other side of Faulkner's Island. about the only exciting incident of the run occurred. The yachts were all becalmed. The sloops Gracie, Fannie, and the schooner Gevalla were all within a hundred feet of each other. There was no room to do anything, and the tide sent them together in one confused heap. The Gracie pulled the band off the end of the Fannie's boom. Otherwise no material damage was done, and as a breeze sprang up a few moments later there were no more col-of the Fannie's boom. Otherwise no material damage was done, and as a breeze sprang up a few moments later there were no more collidons.

Early this morning there was little or no wind on the Sound off Morris Love, where the fluest had anchored for the night after a lard day's beat, and for a time it looked as though there would be no wind all day. All the skin-piets were grumbling at their ill linek, when, at 10:15 o'clock, a nice little breeze from the northwest sprung upon the Connecticut shore. The Regatta Committee on Vice-Commodore Morgan a steam yach: Ituna were ready for it, and at 11:17 o'clock the preparatory gun was fired. The course for the day was, starting from an imaginary line drawn from the Ituna to a stake boat bearing the club burgee, anchored about a mileoutside the New Haven breakwater to the New London light, keeping Bartlett's Reef Lightship on the port hand. Distance, about 39 miles.

The wind was favorable; the yachts crossed the line with sheets slightly cased on the port tack. After they crossed they all set big balloon jibtopsails, and the schoener maintepsail and staysails went up as well. The Gloriana was the first bout to cross. She made no pretence of not racing to-day, and indulged in no fanciful small boat astern, as she did yesterday. John Barr's familiar figure was at the wheel, and it was evident that he intended to beat his brother Charley on the Wasp If he could. The starting signal was given at 10:27:20. The times, as follows: Gloriana. 10:28:00; Gevalla. 10:30:00; Wasp, 10:32:30; Quicksten, 10:33:40; Sayonara, 10:35:50; Azalea, 10:37:20. Black Rock on Tuesday evening, could be seen in the distance making their way down the Sound. They were all too late to save their handleap.

At 11:30, when the fleet were off the Thimble Island, the wind kicked, and finally died out altogether. The Black Rock contingent, however, carried the breeze down with them and were soon abreast with the rest of the fleet. At one time a line stretched from shore to shore would have touched nine-tenths of the sailing yachts in the fleet. Right here W. H. Langley's handsome schooner Comet caught up and joined the fleet accompanied by the Liris and Clara. Some of the more experienced skippers kept in shore, and were the first to feel the breeze, which sprang up again at 11:45. It only lasted for a moment, but it was enough to send the schooners Dauntiess, Atlantic, Ramona, and Gavalia ahead of the Canone. Lasca, Alcera, Constellation, Alert, and Montauk, which were out in the middle of the Sound. At that hour off Sachem's Head the order of the fleet was Sayonara, Wasp, Quickstep, Liris, Fanny, Gracie, Ventura, and Slammock. Then came the Dauntiess, Iraquois, Ramona, Comanche, Occahontas, Lasca, Montauk, Alcera, Constellation, Ocnone, Miranda, and Nonpareil. At 1 P. M., when the lea fers were off Faulkner's Island, the wind hauled around to the southwest and stayed there for the rest of the afternoon.

The fleet all jilhed their booms over to port.

The fleet all jilled their booms over to port, and as soon as they worked off a little from the shore they eased off their sheets and made comparatively good time for the rest of the afternoon.

comparatively good time for the rest of the afternoon.

The Wasp commenced to pick up on the Sayonara and soon was on level terms with her. The pair then indulged in a luffing match, which took them wavout on the Sound. It made little difference to them, as they were so far ahead of the fleet that the others could not catch them. A large number of the fleet did not catch them. A large number of the fleet did not catch them. A large number of the fleet did not catch them. A large number of the fleet did not catch them. A large number of the fleet was the leaders, so no fair comparison could be made from their work to-day.

At 2:15 off Westbrook the order of the fleet was. Wasp. Sayonara. Marguerite, Shamreck, Lasca, Gloriana. Atlantic, and Iroquois, followed by the Dauntless, the leader of the rear division. The others were all bunched together a mile astern. At 2:20 the Gloriana test her spinnaker to starboard. The Wasp, Lasca, Fanny, and Sayonara all followed her example a few moments later, and soon the entire fleet had then out. They made a pretty picture as they passed Cornfelid Point lightship, buried, as they passed Cornfelid Point lightship, buried, as they lasce which lasca, which had been doing some great.

had then out. They made a prefty picture as they passed Cornicell Foint lightship, buried, as they were, in canvas.

The Lasca, which had been doing some great sailing, caught up with and passed the Shamrock, Marguerite, and Fanny, and chaselaway after the Sayonara and Wasp. At that hour the Merlin and Alcaa, her two rivals, were over two miles astern. The Wasp was I minute 28 seconds ahead of the Sayonara, and the Marguerite 5 minutes ahead of the Shamrock. The order of the leaders at the finish was: Wasp. Sayonara, Lasca, Marguerite, Fanny, Gloriana, Marguerite, France, Gloriana, Marguerite, Panny, Gloriana, Marguerite, Panny, Alcae, The winners were. Dauntless, Fortuna, Lasca, Marguerite, Quicksten, Fanny, Yentura, Wasp, and Liris. The Fortuna, Ventura, and Liris had a walkover. It is expected that Grover Cleveland will join the fleet to-morrow at Newport. He will probably go on board the Onelda, owned by E. C. Benedict.

probably go on board the Onelia, owned by E. C. Benedict.

New London Harbor was ablaze with light last evening from a score or more search lights on the steam yachts in the harbor. The United States cruiser Philadelphia, the torpodo boat Vesuvius, the Miantonomoh, and the Dolphin and the Concord added to the general illumination. Receptions were held at the Piquot House and the Fort Griswold Hotel, and were largely attended by the visiting yachtsmen. A meeting of the fleet Captains was held on the Electra to-night, and it was decided to proceed to Newport to-morrow.

Among the yachts which joined the fleet here were the steam yachts Nydia. Wild Duck. Bagamore. Nourmahal, Cosette, and Lowa; schooners Mayflower, Palmer, Teffer, Are-thusa, Waterwitch; sloops Wayward, Uvria, and Adelaid. The summary follows:

JAY COULD'S YACHT FOR SALE.

Not Recause of the Alva's Accident, But It was said yesterday in Wall street that Jay Gould had asked the O. W. Hughes Yacht Agency to sell his yacht, the Atalanta. The story was that Mr. Gould had decided to dis-pose of the yacht because of the wreck of the Alva. Mr. Hughes told a Sun reporter that on Aug 28, 1880, he had been commissioned to dispose of the Atalanta. "The Atalanta," he said, "hasn't been in commission since 1830. A long time ago a gentleman informed me that he wanted to buy her. The price set by Mr. Gould at first was $250,000. I believe the toatcost half a million. On July 18 I wrote to Mr. George Gould asking him what was the lowest figure for which his father would sell the Atalanta. The next day I received a reply that the lowest price was $200,000. The Alva was wrecked on July 23. The date of Mr. George Gould's letter shows that the loss of Mr. Vanderbilt's boat had nothing to do with Mr. Gould's determination to sell the Atalanta."

It is said that Mr. Gould has found it to be too expensive to maintain the Atalanta even in idleness. There is a story that once Capt. Shackford, the commander of the Atalanta, asked Mr. Gould to allow him to enter her in a race. He informed Mr. Gould told him to baye them made. The bill was $10,500. Mr. Gould was surprised, and, it is said, remarked that it was costly to get his boat in trim. her. The price set by Mr. Gould at first was

The Sale of the Alva.

Mr. Vanderbilt's steam yacht, the Alva, which was sun't by the Dimock off Monomoy Point, Mass., and which lies at the bottom of the sea. will be sold at public auction at 1 o'clock to-morrow atternoon by Burdett & Dennis, at 2D Burling slip. With the yacht will be sold her tackle and all that is upon her as she now lies under water.

Mr. Hawkins Won't Give Up Mr. Loper's Yncht,

G. Weaver Loper wants his steam yacht Gadabout, and John P. Hawkins, a shipbuilder at City Island, says he can't bave her until he at City Island, says he can't bave her until no pays $1,418.11 for repairs. The yacht was formerly owned by Elisha M. Fulton, Jr., and when Mr. Loper bought her he sent the yacht up to City Island for repairs. Mr. Loper says that he has aiready paid Hawkins $2,700 and he is willing to ray $500 more. In the opinion of Mr. Loper $4,48.11 is altogother too much. He brought suit yesterday in the United States Circuit Court to get possession of his yacht. St-ambont Inspectors Hear Charges Against Commodore Erben's charges against Pilot J. W. Emmons of the Brooklyn Annex ferry-boat No. 5 were examined yesterday by the Local Board of Steamboat Inspectors. Commodore Erben and the crew of his steam modore Erben and the crew of his steam launch, which was nearly run down by the ferrybont on July 27, agreed in the statement that the pilot of the ferrybont hadn't noticed their signals. The ferrybont was just coming out of her slip in Brooklyn when the inunch started to go across her bow. The launch had lots of time to make good bor course, and she signalled to the ferrybont three times. Not receiving any reply Commodore Erben ordered his coxswain to stop the launch and let the ferrybont pass out. This was done. Pilot Emmons said that he blew two whistles in reply to the launch's signals. Decision in the case was reserved.

Thrown from the Wagon and Rus Over. While Peter Schneider was driving a Knickerbocker ice wagon yesterday afternoon along Morris avenue, near 155th street, the horses became unmanageable. They ran down the street at a high rate of speed, and John Connelly of 174 East Eighty-seventh street, schneider's helper, was thrown from the wagon. The wheels passed over him, breaking his right leg and two of his riba. He was taken to the Harlem Hospital.

Robbery at a Swell Brooklyn Club.

Relly Busch, a waiter at the swell Hamilton Club of Brooklyn, was arrested by Detective Sergeant Mahoney yesterday for burglarizing the room of Benjamin H. Huttman, who lives at the club. Mr. Huttman reported the loss of three gold badges and a pair of diamond cuff buttons, valued at $150, and the property was found where the thief had pawned it in this city. Busch was held by Judge Haggerty.

What! Hit a Third Avenue Car Horse ! Lawrence Crow of 112 East 129th street, enraged because one of the team he was driving refused to draw a Third avenue car, belabored the horse with a heavy switch iron. He was arrested and was held by Justice Meade in the Harlem Court yesterday to answer a charge of

PINE ALLEGES CONSPIRACY. He Declares that He Was Frenen Out of the

Trinidad Asphalt Company, Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court heard a motion of James A. W. Pine for the appoint-argument and reserved decision yesterday on ment of a receiver of the Trinidad Asphalt Company. Pine says this company obtained the assets of the West Indies Asphalt Company, in which he had a controlling interest, as the result of a conspiracy.

At the last annual election of the West Indies Asphalt Company, he alleges, he reelected, by voting on his majority of stock, the old Board of Directors. They immediately de-posed him as President and elected another posed in his atead. They then ways a more posed him as freather and elected address person in his stead. They then gave a mortgage on the assets of the company, and sold them for non-payment of the mortgage. They formed the Trinidad Asphait Company, which secured the assets, and he was frozen out.

The defendants declared that although Pine had organized the West indies Asphalt Company, he had not put a dollar into the concern except $4,000, which he borrowed from one of the defendants, and has not returned. The defendants had put up about $175,000 in cash, and, finding the company insolvent under the management of Pine, had decided on a change of administration.

LOTTIE BENSON FOUND.

She Admits Having Stoles Her Father's Watch and Her Mother's Breastpin,

Fourteen-year-old Lottle Benson, who disappeared from her home in Sea Cliff in company with Peter Schaum, a married man, was found on an isolated road near that village early restorday morning with Schaum. They early yesterday morning with Schaum. They were fast asleep, folded in each other's arms, The girl was taken home, but Schaum escaped. Soon after the girl's disappearance Tuesday her father missed his gold watch and Mrs. Benson a gold breastpin. The girl said yesterday that she had stolen the articles and given them to Schaum. A warrant has been issued for Schaum's arrest by Justice Crandail.

This Fire Blocked the Elevated Trains. As Policeman Miller of the Leonard street station was passing through Greenwich street last night at 6:25 o'clock, he saw smoke coming from the third story window of the fivestory brick building 278 to 282 Greenwich street, at the corner of Warren street. An alarm was sent in, quickly followed by a second. The firemen had a vantage point to work from on the tracks of the Ninth avenue elevated road, from which they directed streams of waterinto the building. In the mean time the down-town trains were waiting in line for the fire to be put out. The flames were soon under control, and in an hour after the first alarm the fire was all out. The trains, however, were blocked for only half an hour.

Tarrant & Co., druggists, own the building. The fire originated among the seeds and roots in the drying room, on the third floor, just below the laboratory, probably by spontaneous combustion. The damage was $1.800 to the building and $24,000 to stock, which is covered by insurance. ond. The firemen had a vantage point to work

May McLaren Is a Bad Girl.

Agent King of the Gerry society brought into the Yorkville Court yesterday the little girl who gave her name as Mamie Curry, and who was found with Ernest Stegeman of 400 First street, Hoboken, on Third avenue on Sunday night. Stegeman was taking her home. He met her in Hoboken, where she said she had got lost. In this city a man had him arrested, but he was discharged next day. Agent King found the child's father Tuesday night. He is James McLaren of 2.448 Fighth avenue. The girl's name is May, and she is 10 years old. Her father said she stole $5 from him on Sunday and ran away. She had done the same thing before, he said, and was utterly incorrigible. He wanted her sent to an institution. Justice Kilbreth sent May to the American Female Guardian Society and Home for the Friendiess. Sunday night. Stegeman was taking her

TRICKY WORK AT BUFFALO.

CHANGING DRIVERS DID NOT PRE-

VENT TURNER FROM WINNING.

Remarkable Tretting in the 2:29 Class-The First Five Heats Won by Different Bores-Rose Filkins Wins the Fifth, Seventh, and Eighth Heats and the Race. BUFFALO, Aug. 3.- When the gates of the Driving Park were opened to-day for the third meeting of the Grand Circuit all the conditions were favorable for a good afternoon's sport. The wet track of yesterday had dried out in great shape. The free gate had brought together an immense crowd, and the card was a full one, with three trotting classes and a match for pacers. H. B. Walker of Indianapolis wielded the flag, and though but one of the regular classes was decided. Mr. Walker got off sixteen heats without much trouble. Two young trotters entered the 2:30 list in the first two heats of the 2:29 class, and in the three succeeding heat, three other horses reduced their records, the race then standing in the unusual condition of having five different

Themacing match, substituted for the advertised match between Mascot and Johnson, was a poor affair for a Grand Circuit meeting, neither of the sidewheelers being anywhere near the front rank. In a field of nine in the first race Rose Filkins was the choice at $60. Lamont $40, the field $60. The central New York stallion.

In a field of nine in the first race Rose Filkins was the choice at $60. Lamont $40, the field $60. The central New York stallion. Wilkes Golddust, rushed to the front, and, outsteeping the lavorite at the finish, landed the first heat in 2:20%, five seconds below his linghamton mark, and his first mile below 2:30. With odds of 12 to 5 against him, the heat winner was a poor third in the next, as Neille R. a young trotter from Philadelphia, with a record of 2:34; won the heat, with Lamont beaten half a length. The field was now $80. Neille R. $20. but again the heat went to a different stable. Ed discray getting to the front with Chimes Boy in 2:25%, a new mark for the luffalo stallion.

This made a further change in the betting. Chimes Boy and Lamont alternating as the choices, while the field betting was always strong against them, the Turner party being conlident that Rose Filkins intended to win. Mart Demarest took Lamont to the front, Chimes Boy. Neille R. and Rose Filkins close up. Geers made no drive for this heat, but Nellie It and Filkins chased Lamont to the wre, the stallion just squeezing home by a head. It was somewhat curious that although Rose Filkins would have to go to the barn unless she won the next heat, she sold at evens against the field, Lamont, in the few pools in which his name was mentioned, selling at a lower figure than he did before he had won a heat. Lamont led to the distance, where Turner brought up his mare and got the first heat by half a length. Wilkes Golddust fell lame. and was drawn, four only coming out for the sixth heat, for which Filkins was at 10 to 3 on. Filkins broke about fifty yards from home, and Clark, who was close up with Nolle R., had to win the heat at evens against the field. Turner got the next heat, Lamont breaking at the distance, and Clark sitting still behind Neille. Then the judges discovered, somewhat late in the day, what had been public for some time—that Turner was intended to win with one or two heipers. One of these was sight off her gait and Ros

HANDY WITH A REPOLVER.

Benry Jantzer Wins the Amateur Cham-challenge shoot for the American championship took place at the range at 12 St. Mark's place yesterday. There were but two contestants. Louis Seil, who held the trophy, and George F. Jantzer. The shooting was with 44-calibre Smith & Wesson re volvers at 5-iuch targets, with 116-inch bull's-eyes. The system of computing the value of shots is what is known as string measurement. A new target is put up for each shot, and when the target is taken down the distance from the centre of the built-eye to the centre of the built-eyes to the centre of the built-hole is measured by an instrument of the built-eye to the centre of the built-eye to the centre of the built-eye to the centre of the built-eye of the six chambers constituting a string. When the measurements were finally made it was found that Januer's abots measured twenty-one inches, and that Beil was badly beaten, his work being very wild. Januer is therefore the champion, and the trophy remains in New York, for had Beil won it, it would have gone to Boston, whither he is about to remove. snown as string measurement. A new target is put

With Ex-Treasurer Hyatt's Flots.

SOUTH NORWALE, Aug. 3 .- Ex-United States Treasurer James W. Hyatt, President of the Roton Point Improvement Company, who is summering in his cottage at the Point, was attacked yesterday by four drunken roughs from Harlem. Mr. Hyatt is very strong, but from Harlem. Mr. Hyatt is very strong, but at first attempted to persuade them not to molest him. Quickly discovering that method useless, he doubled up both fists, struck out straight from the shoulder, landing heavily on each of his assailants, and putting them to flight just as several attaches from the hotel appeared on the scene. Mr. Hyatt said the men had been fighting among themselves and then turned upon him. A thin mehalr coat which he were was torn to pieces.

Shot by Tramps.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 3.-Tramps are annoying the little village of Alleghany, four miles west of here. Six of them camped in William Finerlaw's barn last Monday night, and when he tried to dislodge them they shot him twice. One of the bullets entered his mouth, cutting his lip and tongue, knocking out four iteeth, and passing out through the left cheek. The other made a flesh wound on his head. An armed posse is scouring the surrounding country in search of the tramps.

SHOCKED, BUT NOT KILLED.

Bushmiller in Able Only to Surmise How

He Was Injured. Policeman Kennedy of the Morrisania sta tion at 3 o'clock yesterday morning met Frederick Bushmiller, a young German emloyed by the North River Electric Light and Power Company, staggering down Third avenue, near 140th street. Blood was flowing from an ugly cut in the back of his head, and Policeman Kennedy asked him how he re-ceived his injuries. He wasn't able to tell. The policeman, recognizing him, took him to the company's headquarters, at Rider avenue and 141st street. There it was discovered that Bushmiller's left hand was burned to the bone across the palm, and there were four similar burns on the inner side of the right leg. All the burns were undoubtedly the work similar burns on the inner side of the right leg. All the burns were undoubtedly the work of electricity.

Dr. Charles Fuchs was hastily summoned. He stitched up the wound in Bushmiller's head, and did what he could to allay the pain of the burns. Then Bushmiller was taken to his home at (3)! East 139th street. Keturning consciousness brought no recollection of how he received his injuries.

His duties consist of patrolling the district at night to discover accidents to electric lights of the company. The company uses two styles of poles to support their lamps. One sort is a wooden pole about twenty-five feet high, surmounted by the lamp, which is held in an iron frames at the top of the pole. These iron frames are hollow, and the wires pass through them and out at the top to the carbons.

Bushmiller remembers walking up Willis avenue, in the direction of its junction with Third avenue, and believes that he discovered a lamp which had ceased to burn, and, staring up the pole, received the whole power of the current when he grassed the broward to switch off the current with his right hand, on which he wore a rubber glove. The rain had scaked everything, including most of the young man's clothing. This, he believes, destroyed the effect of the insulation of the wires. The current thus flowed into the iron frame, which would otherwise have been perfectly safe to selze hold of.

He remembers a violent pain, which racked him from head to foot, but has no recollection of falling, although the cut in his head is evidently the result of a fall. He cannot recollect where he met his mishap. His version falls to account for the burns on his knee. On Third avenue, midway between 145th and 149th street, is an electric light pole which runs between the branches of an allanthus tree. The upper part of the pole is strewn with fragments of the tree branches, and the unbroken hranches are barked in places as if by the fall of a heavy body through them. Had Bushmiller tried to climb to the top of this pole, as seems likely, the i

ACCUSED OF A PROVIDENCE MURDER. Dantel D. Sullivan Arrested at the Fall River Line Pier.

As the passengers were coming from the steamer Pilgrim of the Fall River line yesterday morning Detective Thomas Doane of Bos ton picked tall, fairly well-dressed man out of the crowd, and put the nippers on him. Policeman Finnerty of the steamboat squad saw the act and asked what was the matter. Doane replied that the man was Daniel D.
